"SUN" TEA

"Fresh from the Gardens"

The Past, The Present and The Future.

Poets have written of "The past I leave behind"; men of affairs have stated the same thing; wayward youth promising to reform have made such declarations; all of us have been exhorted to "let the dead past bury its dead."

But can the past ever be left wholly behind? Does it not always intrude into the present and even project itself into the future? Is not the present made up largely of the accumulated experiences of the past, and will not the future be moulded in the experience of today? All history proves that this is so.

Furthermore, even if it were possible to leave the past behind, to wipe the whole slate clean and begin all over again as if what has gone before had never been, would it be a wise course of action? In some respects, perhaps, yes; in other respects most decidedly, no.

The past, it is true, is now only of value for the experiences it has provided, for the lessons it has taught, for the accumulations of wisdom it has stored up for our guidance, for the advances that have been made, and are now ours, in the onward and upward march of the race since prehistoric days. And it is because of these gains that it would be most unwise to completely blot out the past, even if we could.

Even the mistakes, the errors, the foolishness, the sins of the past should not be forgotten; they, too, have their value. They are the signposts along the road of the present, stretching on into the future, to warn us of dangers, to point out what to avoid.

But the past and its experiences, insofar as they resulted in discouragements and disappointments, weariness of life, breaking our courage, lessening our initiative and energies, should be relegated to the limbo of the forgotten. They have no value, and constitute nothing but hampering drags now and throughout the days and years to come. They may well be wholly erased from our memories; left to the past to be forever buried by and in it.

And the present? It is our only opportunity. We may have a future, and we may not; no one can tell. But we have the present, it is now ours, to use or abuse. And the future, if we are accorded one, will largely be what we make it by the use, or abuse, we make of the present.

Down through the ages our customs of life, our daily habits, our modes of thought and action, our institutions of government, our community existence, even our physical beings, have been developing and moulded to the forms of today. Man has profited by the lessons and experiences of the past, and he must continue in the present to profit, to learn, and to apply his learning to the problems of his own future, and the future of his children and of the race, is to be better and brighter than is the present.

From the dark ages to the present, mankind and the world in which we live has progressed. At different stages progress has been achieved by great upheavals, by revolution, but it has been through the less spectacular peaceful processes of evolution that the greatest upward strides have been made, those having the most far-reaching, most beneficial and lasting results for the betterment of all. This very fact, these experiences out of the past, have a lesson for the world of mankind today.

We have been suffering from a so-called business and economic depression. Times have been difficult and discouraging. Men and women in all countries and in all walks of life have been, and many still are, discouraged. Some are desperate, and talk revolution. But the past, if we will heed its warnings, teaches us that the most far-reaching, most beneficial and lasting results may have been the ultimately beneficial reforms which followed, while it has been by and through evolution that the greatest gains and blessings to the masses of the world's inhabitants have been secured.

In times like the present, men's views become distorted and their thinking unsound. This is but natural; it is, indeed, human nature. They are prepared to go to extremes in the present without counting the cost of what the future will call upon them and their descendants to pay for the mistakes they may thereby make.

The present, therefore, is not a time for men to say: "The past I leave behind," except in the sense that they leave the errors and follies and unsound thinking of the past out of their reckoning and plans for the present and future. Rather it is a time to remember and closely study the past, the experiences of the past, and the results which flowed from those experiences, with a view and a determination to profit thereby, rejecting what is bad and experience has proven to be bad, and incorporating, extending, strengthening those ideas and principles which have revealed their soundness into the warp and woof of the future.

A Really New Idea

Woman Eighty-Two, Has Plan To Salvage Old Age

Dr. Lillian Jane Martin, consulting psychologist of San Francisco, who has spent more than half a century as an educator and will celebrate her eighty-second birthday in July, arrived at New York the other day fresh and active after driving her own car across the continent and lecturing in the large cities along the way. "I am here," she announced, "to present the whole matter of salvaging old age. For example, the weakness of being too slow: Many old people started life when the tempo of society was much slower than it is today. And so conditions. Both physical and mental exercises can be given them up to the speed of whatever industry they are in."

Record For Gold Receipts

High Point Reached At Royal Canadian Mint During April

Reaching a new high point in the records at the Royal Canadian Mint, coincident with the record Canadian production as reported to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics the receipts of gold from Canadian mines in April amounted to 260,333 fine ounces valued at $5,381,984.

The previous record was established in December last when the receipts were 245,556 fine ounces worth $5,078,095.

As the receipts in March were 198,332 fine ounces valued at $4,099,892, the gain in the month was pronounced.

A Promising Sign

Many New Manufacturing Industries Are Starting In Britain

Students of the British industrial situation are pointing out that the returns from the Patent Office indicate an increased tendency to protect in Great Britain the production of commodities which heretofore have been largely supplied from foreign countries.

It is of great interest to note, in this connection, that there have been many applications for patents for silk manufacturing machinery, largely controlled by France; for laundry machines, up to now regarded as an exclusive American monopoly; and for dye and alloy manufacturers, of which Germany has been the principal originator in the past.

In all these varying fields, new industries have sprung up in the Old Country, and so far as dyes and alloys are concerned, the manufacture is now predominantly British, while silks and other products are being manufactured in Britain in ever-increasing volume. At a time when business is supposed to be going to the bow-wows, surely this is a promising sign.

Where Butter Is Dear

Russian Housewives Have To Pay $5.00 For Pound

Long queues of women are forming daily in Moscow again because of the serious shortage of butter, milk, eggs and sugar. After a year in which these lines of waiting housewives had been almost eliminated, they have been brought back to the doors of the so-called commercial stores by the thousands. The commercial shops are government-owned, but are distinct from the ordinary rationed government shops, from which daily products have virtually disappeared. The commercial shops sell goods at much higher prices and without food books. Butter sells at about 7.25 rubles (nominally $3.60) a pound and despite the price, there is usually a race to the shops as soon as news of receipt of new supplies is circulated.

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Sourness, Gas and Pain

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, gas, bloating, nervousness, and other ailments, are caused by acids in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed, and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows all too well.

These acids are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. They lay waste to all the food in the stomach, instead of getting any benefit from it. Instead of getting any benefit from it, they lay waste to all the food in the stomach, instead of getting any benefit from it.

Wheat Export

Prospects Are Seen For a Better Export Movement In Near Future

Prospects of a better export movement of wheat, especially after July, when southern hemisphere wheat is exhausted, are forecast in the monthly report of the statistical department of the Board of Grain Commissioners on the movement of western Canadian crops in April.

First rates have been dropped to low levels on the Great Lakes with little business offering. There has been a noticeable demand for rye of late.

No Wood Is Solid

The solidest and soundest kind of wood is not really solid at all. It is full of air—twenty to forty per cent. of its total bulk consists of gas trapped in the minute tubes and cell cavities that all wood is made of. This appears from the researches of Dr. D. T. MacDougal, of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, who reported them.

AT THE AGE OF 40

"I was very stout, and I have taken Kruschen salts for 3 months and have reduced from 212 lbs. to 182 lbs. (age 40). I am a hearty eater, and have never in any way. Also I have never felt ill effects whilst I have been taking Kruschen salts."—T. H. That is an interesting case of a man succeeding without assistance. But if any fat person will be satisfied with a moderate diet, and will take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning, they can lose fat in just the same way.

New Thieving Plan

Scotland Yard Looking For Gang Robbing Letter Boxes

A gang specializing in a combination of thieving and forging are occupying the attention of Scotland Yard. In search of letters containing checks, they fish in public and private letter-boxes, using flypaper as bait. Much of this work must prove futile, unless they have inside information or work at auspicious times, such as the first of the month.

Forgers of the purloined checks are a specialized job, which can be detected only by the use of ultra-violet rays and the aid of a handwriting expert. The gang's methods are so characteristic that they are often referred to as "Scottish letter box" means of identifying their handwork.

Radio In Dummy Funnel

This Innovation Will Be Seen On New British Liner

A dummy funnel will be used to house the wireless equipment of the White Star liner "Georgic," which is rapidly nearing completion at Belfast. Under the present design the funnel will be inside the giant funnel, and thus screened effectively from local electrical disturbances. The top of the funnel will be open, and with the aerial strung on the roof of a cabin inside. This will be possible to obtain uninterrupted wireless signals for direction finding. The screening will be so complete, in fact, that the usual work of eliminating electrical interference from the ship's motors will be unnecessary.

Like her sister ship the "Britannic," the "Georgic" will have two huge elliptical funnels, but as she is a motor vessel, only one is needed as an exhaust and ventilator.

Trapper Meets Tragic End

Perishes From Cold In Shack In Northern Woods As Result Of Accident

Solution of a five-month mystery and the end of a Royal Canadian Mounted Police search came recently with the arrival at The Pas of a Mountie patrol under Constable W. Barrett, bringing the body of Oscar Morrell, missing trapper, from one of the 34 miles east of Mile 374 on the Hudson Bay Railway lines.

Morrell left Mile 374 on Christmas Eve last, planning to be gone two weeks on a hunting trip. It is believed while covering his trapline he accidentally discharged his rifle and blew off his right hand. Driving his team of dogs, he staggered through the snow to one of his trap-line shacks, where he made a rude and futile effort to stop the flow of blood from his injured arm. As he weakened rapidly he built up the fire in the shack to keep out the freezing wind, using chairs, part of his bed, and even his snow-shoes in his effort to keep warm.

When friends here became alarmed at his long absence, a detachment of Mounties set out to search for him and broke into his shack to find his body in the grim setting of his lonely struggle against death. His body was brought to The Pas for identification and burial. He is believed to have lived in Winnipeg and Saskatoon before coming north to trap.

New R.C.M.P. Appointment

Inspector T. J. Sandys Wunsch Named Successor To Inspector Joy

A member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police for more than a score of years, Inspector T. J. Sandys Wunsch, who is now stationed at Cranbrook, B.C., was announced recently by Major-General J. H. The new inspector of the eastern Arctic will have his headquarters in Montreal.

Inspector Wunsch will visit his far northern posts this summer, leaving for the Arctic, July 9, aboard the Hudson's Bay Company vessel "Ungava."

Isabella Horses Are Scarce

Special Breed Can Be Obtained Only In Germany

Isabella horses are being sought in Germany by Captain Hopkins, regarded as one of the best judges of horses in India, at the behest of a Maharajah. They are a special breed with rosy yellow coats and white manes and tails. They are wanted to draw the Maharajah's state coaches. Horses of this type used to be bred throughout Europe by various princes, the studs of the Kings of Hanover in Herrenhausen, being specially noted for them, but now so far as is known they are only bred by one private dealer in Germany.

Flivver Derails Freight Train

Knocks Eight Freight Cars Off The Tracks At Level Crossing

They tell of a mouse falling into a rum barrel and crawling out crying for lions to fight.

Recently at a level crossing near Gravenhurst, Ont., a "flivver" side-swiped a Canadian National Railway freight train and derailed eight cars. It screeched and screeched and died screeching, a total wreck, but in its death agony it killed its owner-driver, T. E. Callon, Orilla, and another passenger, William McEachern, both of whom escaped with minor bruises. None of the train crew was injured.

Considering Plans For Railroad Across Sahara

Low Building Cost Great Incentive To French Deputies

The depression sometimes has curious and conflicting effects. From South America comes the report that it has led to the closing of the famous railroad over the Andes which links Argentina and Chile; from France dispatches relate that it has led to a definite and practical revival of the project for a railroad across the Sahara. In the one case decreased traffic has made further operation unprofitable in the other reduced costs of building material and a plentiful supply of labor are advanced as reasons which make this an especially propitious time for construction. The Saharan project is a gigantic undertaking which demands for its success the economic exploitation of a vast area of land which is now virtually useless. The cost of the railroad itself, entirely apart from the scheme for developing vast irrigation works in the Sahara to be fed by a canal from the Mediterranean, is put at $100,000,000. That an influential group of French Deputies is even considering a Saharan railroad at a time like this is striking evidence that in France at least they apparently do not believe the world is coming to an end. We hope that if news of the closing of the two-mile-high line over the Andes reaches Paris, it will not discourage these promoters of what would probably be the world's lowest and flattest railroad.

Premier Of Japan Is Assassinated By Terrorist Band

Tokyo, Japan.—The Premier of Japan, Suoyoshi Inukai, fell mortally wounded before the revolver fire of military terrorists.

Simultaneously, five buildings in Tokyo were bombed. These included the headquarters of the dominant Seiyukai political party of which Premier Inukai was president.

At the scene of some of the bombings, the terrorists left handbills signed "The Young Army and Navy Officers' Association," expressing bitter dissatisfaction with the political parties, and the way they had handled internal and foreign affairs.

Within a few hours 18 young men, five of them naval sub-lieutenants, and the others former military cadets, surrendered in uniform to the police.

Such was the political uneasiness in the wake of these sudden terrorist activities, that transactions on the stock exchanges of Tokyo, Osaka, Kobe and Nagoya were suspended.

Nine uniformed young men dashed up to the official residence of the premier in an automobile late yesterday, May 15, and opened fire on four policemen and a maid-servant who tried to halt their entrance. All five were wounded.

Inside, the premier was conversing with a visitor identified only as Mr. Tanaka. Mr. Inukai's daughter-in-law, hearing the disturbance outside, rushed in and warned him to flee.

The crashing of doors was plainly audible.

The veteran leader refused.

When the assassins burst into the drawing-room brandishing revolvers, Mr. Inukai arose and upbraided them in strong terms.

"Shoot if you dare!" he said.

Their answer was a volley from nine revolvers. The premier fell, blood streaming from his face. The visitor also was wounded.

Every means was adopted to save the premier's life, including blood transfusion, but six hours later the 77-year-old statesman died at 11:29 p.m., the second head of a state to succumb to an assassin's bullet within 19 days. President Paul Doumer of France, was shot May 8.

Three hours after the assassination ceremony was held at the Imperial Palace transferring the powers of government to Korekio Takahashi, Finance Minister in the cabinet. Mr. Takahashi became acting premier.

Only slight damage was done by the bomb which exploded near the entrance to the home of the venerable Count Makino, Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal, in the Nita district of southern Tokyo.

Witnesses said this grenade was tossed by a group of four or five uniformed men who sped away in an automobile, the license number of which was taken and reported to the police.

A similar automobile load of uniformed men bombed the entrance to the Metropolitan Police Board Office which is just outside the moat at the Sakuradamon (cherry village) gate to the Imperial Palace. The men fired seven or eight shots toward the police building and threw one grenade. A policeman and a newspaperman were wounded.

Meanwhile another group was at-lacking the headquarters of the Seiyukai party three blocks away. Two hand grenades were thrown there. They did little damage.

The bomb placed at the Bank of Japan, in the heart of the financial district, a mile and a half north of the police building, also did little harm.

News of the bombing was flashed to police throughout the city and all reserves were mobilized immediately. Officials feared they were facing a widespread terrorist plot.

Drama Of The Skies

Two Men Of Mooring Crew Lose Lives When Dirigible Attempts To Land

Camp Kearny, Calif.—A tragic drama of the skies was written in the wake of the world's largest dirigible, the "U.S.S. Akron," to land here.

Two men of the mooring crew were dashed to death and a third, Bud Cowart, was carried two hours dangling on a 300-foot rope from the navy dirigible.

Ten thousand spectators saw the two fall as the dirigible surged upward. "Cowart swung precariously half a mile over their heads. Women screamed, men wept."

Then he was rescued, hauled into a hatch of the big ship. A message dropped from the big bag.

"Cowart OK," it read.

A vast sigh of relief went up. The climax to the westward crossing of the Akron, on its first trans-continental trip, came during efforts to make an emergency mooring at Camp Kearny after a aerial voyage fraught with storms.

Several attempts to bring the great skyliner down had been made by a determined ground crew when upward currents suddenly caught the great ship.

Robert Edfall and Nigel Henton, both of the San Diego naval training station, and Cowart clung to the landing line, to the horror of the watching throng as the Akron surged upward. Edfall and Henton lost their grip and fell to death, but Cowart clung on.

Upward the great ship swept with Cowart dangling on the line 300 feet below the dirigible. A height of 2,000 feet was reached but Cowart maintained his precarious grip. Through bumpy air the Akron sailed, but Cowart clung on.

Minutes that seemed like hours to the gasping crowd below passed as the Akron cruised through the bumpy air, rocking up and down, with the upway Cowart dragging along. Then it was noted the distance between Cowart and the Akron began slowly to diminish.

There was no wincing on the rope. It was slow work hoisting Cowart up by hand. At last he was dragged through a cockpit.

Delegates Sail For Home

Hamilton, Bermuda. — Carrying with them to their home parliaments new information on Imperial trade, British and Canadian delegations to the tri-partite conference here sailed from Bermuda May 11. Work of the conference was concluded May 9.

Delegates Will Come From All Dominions

Full Representation Assured For Imperial Conference At Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont.—Mutual advantage to every section of the far-flung Empire will be the objective of the Imperial Conference, which opens in Ottawa, July 21, said Premier R. B. Bennett, during an hour devoted to considering problems to be faced at the commonwealth gathering.

Preparations were well advanced, he said. Committees were gathering information on the three broad subjects to be discussed—trade, communications and currencies.

The Prime Minister will head the Canadian delegation and ministers will be called in, depending upon the subjects under review. Every Dominion has accepted the invitation to be represented, and with the exception of New Zealand and the Irish Free State have named their delegation. Mr. Bennett said.

Creation Of Federal Farm Board Considered

Announcement Made At Ottawa By Hon. Robert Weir

Ottawa, Ont.—A commission of experts will inquire into the feasibility of creating a farm products marketing board.

Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, announced in the House of Commons that in view of the Imperial Economic Conference the government did not consider the board should be established at the present time.

A marketing board, to deal with exports of agricultural products has received considerable study in the few months. Members from all parties in the House have contributed to the discussion.

It was understood the board's activities would apply not only to butter but to many farm products in which the exportable surplus is relatively small in comparison with the domestic consumption.

One of the board's functions would be to handle the export surplus in such a way that Canadian prices would not fluctuate widely, due to the domestic price being affected by the world figure.

House Accepts Radio Report

Bill To Operate Government System Introduced By Premier

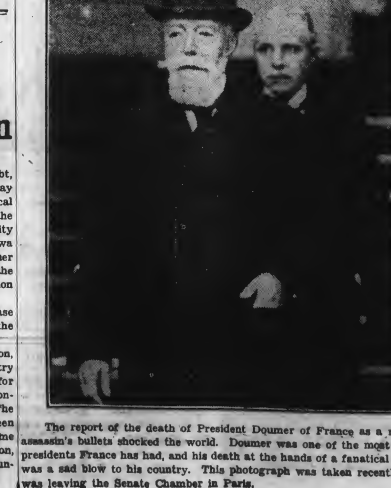

Ottawa, Ont.—The House of Commons took the first step toward nationalized radio broadcasting when it adopted the report of the committee recommending a government-operated system.

Without a dissenting voice, the report was accepted. Then Premier R. B. Bennett gave notice of his intention to introduce a bill establishing a commission to operate the system.

Hon. W. D. Euler, one of the Liberal members on the committee, said the proposed system would not restrain any Canadian owner from getting United States or European programs. It would be a matter of choice, he said, whether a program was selected from United States or Canada, whether classical or jazz music.

This photograph was taken recently as he was leaving the Senate Chamber in Paris.

Governor Sir Philip Game Dismisses Premier Of New South Wales

No Wheat Bonus

Both Bushel and Acreage Bounties Plans Are Rejected

Ottawa, Ont.—A bonus scheme for wheat, on both a bushel and acreage basis, was turned down definitely by the House of Commons. Without a recorded vote two motions were defeated, the first from Robert Gardiner, leader of the farm bloc, suggesting continuation of the five cent bounty on export wheat, and the second from Dr. Thomas Donnelly, Liberal, Willow Bunch, proposing a five cent bonus on a seed-acreage basis.

In discussing the question of wheat in its relation to the welfare of Canada and its importance to Canadian export trade, it must be remembered that the greatest proportion of wheat was produced in the prairie provinces, Mr. Gardiner declared. During the early part of the present century many people had been induced to go to western Canada by the great opportunities which were said to lie there in wheat-growing.

Progressive members had been long awaiting some declaration of policy from the government with regard to the wheat-growers. Mr. Gardiner realized that the members of the government were bearing tremendous responsibilities, and felt sympathy with them in the burden they were called upon to bear. But that fact did not relieve him from the responsibility of inquiring from the government what the policy was.

"We produce the best wheat in the world, and we are proud of it," Mr. Gardiner continued. But it cost about 75 cents a bushel to produce No. 1 wheat on the basis of twenty bushels to the acre. The price level for No. 1 wheat at the head of the lakes was approximately 59 cents a bushel. Consequently every bushel grown meant a loss of seventeen cents. The wheat farmer could not keep on very long with such prices.

Price of commodities which the farmer used were somewhere lower than in the past, he declared. On the other hand, they had not fallen to the extent which wheat prices had dropped.

Alberta Commission To Investigate Banking

Canadian Finance In General Will Be Subject Of Study

Edmonton, Alberta.—Appointment of a commission to make a thorough study of Canadian finance and banking and investigation of systems of leasing public lands instead of homesteading or outright selling of land was announced by Premier J. E. Brownlie. The commission will also study finance in general.

Through its investigation of the Canada Bank Act, which will be one of its primary functions, the commission will be instructed to bring in a report in anticipation of revision of the act at the next session of the Dominion parliament.

Sydney, N.S.W.—J. T. Lang went back to the farm Friday night, May 13, stripped of his authority as Premier of New South Wales when Governor Sir Philip Game dismissed him.

The former premier departed for his country home outside this state capital and left his Labor supporters astonished at the sudden turn of events, which at a stroke turned them from governing party into an opposition.

Meanwhile B. S. Stevens, leader of the erstwhile opposition, faced the task of forming a new government at the bidding of the Governor.

While consternation reigned among supporters of the Labor movement, the more conservative-minded of the population expressed undisguised joy at being rid of an administration they blamed for lowering the state's credit and bringing internal strife.

Extraordinary scenes were enacted when news of the premier's downfall spread through the city. Diners in restaurants jumped to their feet, cheering and singing.

News reports from Melbourne said the premiers of South Australia, East Australia and Tasmania all welcomed the opportunity of a united Australian party government to restore the credit of New South Wales, Premier Lionel Hill, of South Australia, suggested an early convention of the Australian Labor Council to straighten out New South Wales' finances.

The opportunity of an end to the governor's demand for Mr. Lang's resignation arose from circular letters among the heads of the state government departments, urging that they refuse to turn over to commonwealth officials funds which they had come to collect under terms of the Federal Financial Agreement Enforcement Act.

An International Problem

Present Economic Crisis In World-Wide And Too Deep-Seated For Individual Action

Quebec, Que.—Unemployment is an international problem and must receive international consideration, Tom Ducey, president of the Canadian Labor Congress of Canada, said when he arrived here on the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Australia." Mr. Moore was a Canadian labor delegate to the International Labor Conference at Geneva.

Unemployment formed the chief topic of discussion at the conference. Mr. Moore said, and delegates agreed that the present economic crisis is world-wide and too deep-seated for individual action.

Foresees Election In India

Lord Lothian, chairman of the franchise committee of the round table conference, was in an interview before leaving India.

British Government's Stand On Irish Question Subject Of Criticism

Manchester, England.—"What reason is there for presenting a pistol at the Free State legislature while it is still only discussing the oath bill," asked the Manchester Guardian editorially in connection with the British Government's declaration that should the bill for abolition of the oath of allegiance be made law, Britain could not enter into any further agreements with the Free State.

"The underlying motive," the Manchester Guardian continued, "perhaps springs from Mr. Thomas (Dominions Secretary) affection for poker. He has sat tight with a good hand for what has for him been a long time. He has seen Eamon de Valera getting the publicity and the limelight and he thinks now is the opportunity to call his bluff."

"It seems rather a dangerous game to play. Sometimes or other, no doubt, the government would have to say Valera could not be both a casualist and a loyal citizen of the commonwealth. The opportunity would have come fittingly at Ottawa when in the presence of the other members of the commonwealth the British position could have been brought out."

"The strength of the British case has lain largely in the knowledge the Dominions are on our side."

The News-Chronicle of London, Liberal organ, complains this country appears to be leaving preparations for the Ottawa Imperial Economic Conference too much to Ottawa. The result so far, it adds, has not been particularly happy, making Prime Minister R. B. Bennett's position, "which is never very easy, quite unnecessarily difficult."

Believe Lindbergh Baby Was Slain Immediately After The Kidnapping

Trenton, N.J.—Two tremendous blows on the head ended the life of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., the official autopsy by Dr. Charles A. Mitchell, county physician, disclosed.

The autopsy showed that the skull had been fractured on the left side, the fracture extending from the top of the head behind the left ear. The second blow was dealt on the right side of the head just back of the right ear, and left a hole one-half inch in diameter.

It was as if some adult person had held the baby tightly in his arms and deliberately hammered the head with the purpose of causing instant death.

The diagnosis was:

"The cause of death is a fractured skull, due to external violence."

Dr. Mitchell's report confirmed that decomposition of the body had progressed to the point where it could be surmised that the child had been killed almost immediately after the kidnapping, depending on climatic and other conditions that might have produced such results.

The autopsy also indicated that the body had not been disturbed, probably since it had been buried, although this point was not covered definitely.

Teeth, cranial and other bone formations were given to confirm the identification of the child, although the autopsy was purely technical and itself did not try to establish identity.

Dr. Mitchell said there was evidence of a hemorrhage on the inner surface of the left side of the skull at the point of fracture. This would indicate that the blow on the left side of the head might have been the one that actually caused death.

The scalp was so badly decomposed that it was impossible to find any contusions or hemorrhagic conditions external to the skull, Dr. Mitchell added. Thus it was impossible from a diagnostic point of view to aid the police in the hunt for the actual instrument of death.

The autopsy reports did not speculate as to blows such, but left the diagnosis at "external violence."

Physicians usually pronounce such fractures, however, as due to blows delivered on the head rather than accidental fractures.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

This district has suffered the experience of seeing authority flouted and derided by irresponsibles, till it has aroused the public conscience of those who realize that orderly government can only be carried on by observing the laws. There are others who, though not openly demonstrating, have for reasons best known to themselves, tried to have a "stand in" with Reds as long as they thought they were going to turn things topsy-turvy. These are not confined to miners alone, and at the proper time and place more will be heard of this class who accept salaries or wages under a capitalist system which they are secretly aiding and abetting against.

Men are free to express their political opinions, the right to organize labor unions is necessary, the freedom of speech under the British constitution is guaranteed; but the majority of citizens will not remain indifferent to the actions and talk of those who in secret are traitors and rebels. Our constitution and system of government enable reforms to be brought about in an orderly manner.

As an instance of the serious consequences that may follow the unbridled loosing of tongues, a counteracting effect was seen last week in a cross being burned at Blairmore and warning notices posted. It means that a section of the citizenry is becoming incensed, and, dissatisfied with inactivity on the part of the government, are not above hesitating to take the law into their own hands.

This would be disastrous, and would lead to a state of anarchy and negation of governmental authority for a brief period, during which lives might be lost. Yet the danger exists. It caused bloodshed at Estevan.

There are many people in the Crows Nest Pass who will join in a movement to legally remove those disturbers of the peace who have caused serious loss to the miners and others who depend on the coal industry. They have got to "walk the track," an expression they are so fond of using, before harmony will again reign in the Pass towns.

The dispute of working agreements with the mines is but a subterfuge from start to finish to impose Communism and its nefarious schemes, its hatred of the church, and wrecking of the government by militant revolution. And the most prominent disturbers are men who before the Communist party took them under its wing, had never been known to move a hand to further the cause of trade unionism among the miners. Their sole purpose is to wreck capitalism and what they term the "boss" class, which includes everyone not a Communist. In their dictum, expressed with parrot-like repetition, there are but two classes—Communists and Parasites.

The best antidote against these would-be robbers of liberty and the right for each to earn a living in his own way, is for all opposed to Communism to use every influence at their command to smash it. Canada wants none of it. Now is the time for anti-Communists to organize their forces, to uphold the laws, and to stop the spread of this cancerous influence which for over a year has been nothing more than a miserable, wrecking gang under the guise of a labor union, even afraid to acknowledge till forced that it was organized by agents of the Communist party, and the district secretary of which, once expelled from the party, made an apology by which he crawled in again.

This is the type who would lead the miners to "solidarity." They have led them almost to hell, for their destruction as a district union is almost complete.

Readers will pardon us for referring to the clean-up campaign, and to remind them that gardens and back lanes are included. Another reminder—town hall officials should not overlook the fact that Tuesday is May 24th, and we would like to see the Union Jack in its place early in the day. Victoria Day is well worthy of remembrance. For that reason it is observed as a public holiday throughout Canada.

Boy Scout organizations throughout the world play a prominent part in inculcating into boys ideals of good citizenship. Pass towns in putting on a campaign for the annual summer camp are participating in a movement worthy of everyone's support. Do not feel that your contribution may be too small. It is the combined giving, great or small, that counts, and every cent contributed is a good investment—for good citizenship.

With the elimination of Communist dominance, steps will be taken for organizing a local union which can be counted on to protect the interests and welfare of the miners. Those appointed to office should receive the loyal support of the members, for in unity there is strength. A labor or trade union is essential and its strength depends on vigorous leadership and loyalty, not "red" radicalism and destruction.

BALANCED

Smoothness and Economy!

... the reason why
"It's wise to choose this Six"

ONCE you really study the Chevrolet Six, you'll know immediately why so many motorists are saying "It's wiser than ever to choose this Six". Study the engine, for example. Long ago Chevrolet pioneered the six-cylinder engine in the low price field because this type of power plant strikes a perfect balance of smooth performance and maximum economy. It is a fact that the Chevrolet Six costs less for gasoline, oil and upkeep than any other full-size car! In addition, the Chevrolet Six gives you more actual horsepower in the normal driving range—balanced power, for quick acceleration and effortless speed. And this six-cylinder engine has been proved reliable by more than 2,000,000 owners in billions of miles of driving.

Ask your friends about the Chevrolet Six; come to our showrooms and drive it. Remember, you can have immediate delivery of any Chevrolet model—at new, reduced prices—and on easy monthly payment terms.

A WEEK IN FAIRYLAND

Nobody ever entirely loses that childhood illusion of a land which surpasses in loveliness, surprise and happiness anything that the mind is capable of envisaging; the land of make-believe, which everyone hopes may someday become a reality. It is not too much to say that the glorious Rockies, Canada's great holiday territory, renowned throughout the world, are as close to this elusive dreamland as anything that mortal man is likely to discover. Special arrangements for the coming season now bring a week in this modern fairytale land well within the reach of the average traveller, with Banff and Lake Louise, on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, as base-points and a wide range of every varying scenery and cosy bungalow camps beyond. The "six-and-a-half days' tour" has already become a slogan among those planning their summer vacation, embracing, as it does, not only the two famous hotels at Banff and Lake Louise, but such well known points of interest and beauty as Johnston Canyon; Moraine Lake and the immortal Valley of the Ten Peaks; the Lakes in the Clouds; the Plain of the Six Glaciers; the Great Divide; Wapta Lake Bungalow

Camp; Yoho Valley and Bungalow Camp; Takakkaw Falls; the historic Kicking Horse; Mount Stephen; Emerald Lake and the wonders of the great mountains near Field, B.C. Easily reached from all points by Canadian Pacific Railway, main line points are linked with the camps in the inner mountains by the Brewster Transport Company, part masters in comfort and conveyance for the traveller in the valleys and passes of the mighty Rockies. Automobile driven, trail rides and hikes combine with bright entertainment in the evenings to make the holiday something to be remembered for a lifetime.

Here and There

Practically an egg a day is eaten by every man, woman and child in Canada. The average per capita yearly consumption of eggs in the Dominion is 361, the highest of any country, according to an official computation.

Canada's gold production in 1931 reached the new high total of 2,527,776 ounces valued at $65,457,500. This is 27.5 per cent above the 1930 production. Of this total the province of Ontario accounted for 2,079,752 ounces valued at $42,992,288.

New Brunswick can now claim the rare distinction of producing a native squirrel. The animal was caught by Jack Fleming of Fredericton who trapped it near the village of Lincoln. It has been bought by the government and will be mounted and placed on exhibition.

Hon. Cairine Wilson, Canada's only woman Senator, arrived recently at Quebec on board the Empress of Australia, from a trip through Europe. While in London she visited the House of Lords, but could not make comparisons with the Senate since the House was not in session.

Western plains have been given a boost by the rains of the last days of April and farmers of the prairie provinces are cheered by fine seeding conditions and good prospects of crop success, according to information summarized by the Canadian Pacific agricultural department crop report.

Following the announcement of reduced ocean rates on Canadian Pacific ships on the Atlantic, one of the largest parties ever to leave Toronto at this time of year for the Old Country sailed recently aboard the Duchess of York. There were 276 in the party drawn from all parts of eastern Ontario but mostly from Toronto.

The first cases of roses and shrubs from France for Grand Pre Park, Nova Scotia, arrived there recently. They are from Chateaufort, France, the gift of the mayor of that town. Chateaufort is one of the places in France where the exiled acadians settled after the Grand Pre expulsion.

Four stretches of New Brunswick trout and salmon waters were sold at the Department of Lands and Mines recently for prices totalling $5,850. These leases for a term of 10 years are on the Restigouche, Kedgwick, Matapedia and Big Seveigne Rivers and prices paid are the annual rental charges.

Daylight saving time, commencing in Quebec and Ontario provinces May 1, occasioned little confusion on Canadian Pacific travel. Travellers have nowadays learned that the railways remain on standard time and govern themselves accordingly. The railway announced a number of train time alterations prior to the introduction of daylight saving.

From little Norfolk Island in the South Pacific, one of the smallest units in the British Empire, an excellent example has been for exhibition at the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held at Regina July 1932, has just arrived. Norfolk Island is the scene of the punishment of the mutineers of the "Bounty" in 1789 but it has long ago changed from a penal to a prosperous settlement. (B4)

Paradise For Fishermen

Once Barren Lakes In North Now Teeming With Trout

Trout fry placed in the heretofore barren waters of the Medicine-Maligne Lake system in Jasper Park by the fish culture branch of the Department of Fisheries, grew and multiplied so quickly that during the past summer fish as heavy as six pounds were taken by anglers and there seemed to be a limitless supply.

Using rod and line for test fishing in Maligne, Dr. Bajkow and Dr. Neave found sport "so good that three or four hours with one rod produced over 100 pounds of fish."

In Beaver Lake which lies about a mile from the southern portion of Medicine Lake, "as soon as the spoon struck the water the trout rushed from all directions." In order to get some further idea as to the abundance of the fish the investigators set a 30-foot gill net in Beaver Lake. "Over 400 fish were caught in about two hours, so that most of the next two hours had to be spent in cutting the meshes of the net and releasing the fish into the lake again."

The trout are growing to be big fellows, too. The first fry put into the Medicine-Maligne system by the fish culture people were distributed in 1928. That's only three years ago, but a trout taken in Maligne Lake a few weeks ago tipped the scale at six pounds, an exceptional weight for a 3-year-old speckled trout.

RESTFUL SLEEP for FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD

—With Castoria's regulation

When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. Very often the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help—but effective. Just the kind Castoria gives. Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. Don't let your child's rest—and your own—be interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then relaxed comfort and restful sleep! Genuine Castoria always has the name.

Is Still a Mystery

No Trace Of Winnipeg Child Who Disappeared Four Years Ago

Torn and yellowed with time, a circular hangs on the bulletin board of Winnipeg's central police station offering a reward for information leading to the discovery of Julia Johnson, a mute reminder of Winnipeg's parallel to the recent kidnapping of Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

Four years ago Julia, a laughing-eyed Polish girl, vanished from in front of her home as mysteriously as the little son of the flying colonel. Efforts of the police of an entire continent were immediately enlisted in an effort to trace the lot, but without success.

No demands for ransom were received following Julia's disappearance. She was reported to having been seen in various sections of the city in the company of an old man. Police dogs were put on her trail and hundreds of citizens organized search parties which led into remote corners of Manitoba in a fruitless attempt to find a solution of her disappearance. Julia would now be nine years old. Her parents still believe she will be found some day. Each year a candle is added in her home and the sympathy of at least one Winnipeg mother goes out to Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh in the loss of her baby in a way that only a fellow sufferer can understand.

Collected Queer Articles

So-Called Pauper With Fortune In Bank Had Odd Hobby

Investigators in Hamilton, Ontario, probing the strange case of Abadiah Markie, the so-called pauper who died leaving a bank account of $14,000, found themselves faced with the most baffling collection of articles ever seen outside of a museum today.

Markie died over a month ago, apparently in penury, and was buried at the city's expense. Later it was discovered he had $14,000 in the bank. Large packing cases were located in a storage warehouse, in Markie's name, and were opened in the presence of witnesses.

Among the things found were: Notebooks of the Royal Hotel, many defunct; 200 rubber heels, old-fashioned bartenders' rubber shirt fronts, a collection of 390 hats—a coachman's hat, paid caps, devices which revealed every fashion from the 80's onward; a large assortment of keys for opening sardine cans, huge stocks of bedding, coat buttons, hair-pins, powder puffs of yesteryear, soup spoons, patent eye testers, nam-pins of greeting cards, paper ice cream spoons and many other peculiar articles.

Largest Welded Bridge

What is considered the largest welded bridge in the world has just been completed in Pilsen, Czechoslovakia. It crosses two railroad tracks, has a span of 161.4 feet, and a width of 27.4 feet. The total weight is 145 metric tons, which is said to be 21 per cent. less than that of a riveted structure designed for the same purpose. Another unusual feature in the spiral ramp at one end, necessitated by limited space.

IT CATES FOR A SCARF EFFECT THAT WILL STAY PUT

Delightfully young and smart is this new slim-line model.

Since crepe silk both plain and print is so charming, it was chosen for this fascinating model.

It is light navy blue spotted in red. The soft crusted scarf collar gives it such distinction in plain white crepe.

Another ideal suggestion is plain crepe in soft beige shade self-trimmed.

For summer wear, handkerchief linen prints, batiste prints and tub silks are nice mediums.

You'll find it very simple to fashion, and the cost unbelievably small. Style No. 899 is designed for sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards of 36-inch material with 1/2 yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Price of pattern 25 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Great Canadian Hero

Colonel Mulloy Set High Example For Loyalty To The Empire

Colonel Lorne Winfield Mulloy, D.C.M., B.A., died unexpectedly at his home on the St. Lawrence River, Ontario, at 11 p.m. Sunday, February 21st, 1932, from heart attack, aged 53 years. Thus, with dramatic suddenness, there was removed from Canadian public life, one of its most brilliant intellects and inspiring figures.

Blinded in the South African War, Colonel Mulloy mastered every obstacle imposed by his wounds, cheerfully created fresh obstacles to surmount, scorned the paths of least resistance, was supremely successful in all tasks he undertook, and his death came at a time when his powers of intellect and his great executive abilities appeared destined to still further achievements.

Born on a Canadian farm, blinded in his early twenties, he continued his education with the aid of a secretary graduated with honors from two famous universities, became one of the most outstanding speakers of our day on subjects of political economy, was offered more than once a seat in the British House of Commons, was on the staff of the Royal Military College, became a successful practicing lawyer, and his services to Canada during, and immediately after the war, were sufficiently conspicuous to deserve amplification.

He has been referred to as the father of Union Government in Canada. His fight and arguments for compulsory military service are believed to have been the deciding factor in causing the United States to declare against the inefficiency of voluntary enlistment.

As early as 1910 he was one of the leaders in Great Britain in the fight for tariff reform and Empire negotiations, such as are now being negotiated by the several governments affected.

Mulloy's physical handicap was not perceptible to his friends, and he refused to recognize his lack of sight as either a misfortune or a handicap. His physical assurance was magnificent. He could swim, ride, row, fish, or drive a golf ball with any man. Alone he has piloted a row boat across the St. Lawrence River in a gale. He could undertake a fishing line more quickly than any companion. He never walked except at a stride. He has ever been an incessant traveler, and he never had an accident.

His humour was scintillating, clear and infectious; invariably he looked through and beyond the dark side of life. He was the soul of sincerity, generosity and integrity.

Mulloy's life should be printed in every school book, told from every pulpit and repeated at every Canadian fireside. As a practical and thrilling inspiration to the boys and girls of this country, this epic of courage and triumph and high ideals will perhaps never be exceeded.

Some Amazing Facts

So small is this germ that one grain of sand is four million times larger than it. A hundred threads of the silkworm are just one-twenty-fifth of an inch thick and when placed side by side, but there are some metals that can be drawn out to such a fineness that twelve hundred wires are only as thick as a hundred silkworm threads.

JACOB AND ESAU RECONCILED

Golden Text: "Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving each other, even as God also in Christ forgave you."—Ephesians 4:32.
Lesson: Genesis 32, 33.
Devotional Reading: Matthew 6:9-15.

Explanations and Comments

Jacob's Precutations, verses 1, 2.—Looking up Jacob saw Esau approaching with four hundred men. The presence of so many men with Esau may be accounted for by his having just made his expedition to Mount Seir, where he conquered the land in which he afterwards settled, Genesis 36:6, 7. Elsewhere suggests that he may have wished at the same time to make his brother anxious and to show him the contrast between their respective positions. Jacob evidently feared the worst. He was keenly aware of what he deserved at his brother's hands. He arranged his little company and put the handmaids and their children first, Leah and her children next in the train, and last in the rear, his best-loved ones, Rachel and Joseph.

"Though courts of law neglect to curb transgression."

The court of conscience always is in season.

The Meeting Of The Brothers, verses 3-11.—Jacob passed over the ford first, and showed Esau the greatest reverence by bowing himself to the ground seven times. Esau ran to meet and embrace Jacob, falling on his neck and kissing him as was the custom among friends. Had Jacob's present and his reverent attitude disarmed him? Dr. Skinner thinks that Esau's intentions were hostile and that Jacob gained a diplomatic victory over him. Rather does it seem that Esau had no thought of vengeance, he had dismissed the affair of the birthright with a shrug as it were, and now virtually said, "Don't mention our trouble. I have got along famously without the birthright and without you."

Whatever the actuating motive he was magnanimous.

"If thou must have thy revenge on thine enemy, keep coals of fire on his head, forgive him, and enjoy it."—Thomas Browne.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

LEMON SPONGE PIE

(Makes 1 pie)

3 egg yolks, beaten thick.

5 tablespoons lemon juice.

1 teaspoon ground lemon rind.

1 cup sugar.

3 tablespoons flour.

1/2 teaspoon salt.

1 tablespoon melted butter.

1 1/2 cups milk.

3 egg whites.

Uncooked pastry.

Combine all ingredients, folding in last stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into pie tin lined with uncooked pastry and put into hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit). After 10 minutes reduce heat to medium (350 degrees Fahrenheit) and bake 20 minutes longer, or until filling is firm.

ALL-BRAN QUICK BREAD

2 teaspoons baking powder.

1 tablespoon sugar.

1/2 cup molasses.

2 cups milk.

2 eggs.

2 tablespoons melted butter.

1 cup chopped nuts.

Sift dry ingredients. Add bran. Then add molasses, egg slightly beaten to milk. Stir into dry ingredients, mixing well. Add nuts and melted shortening. Pour into a well greased loaf pan. Let stand 15 minutes. Bake in a moderate oven, (325 degrees Fahrenheit) from one to one-and-one-half hours.

Story Of Near Disaster

Crew Of Small Motor Tanker Fight Blazing Fire While Crossing Atlantic

Trapped by a blazing fire while crossing the Atlantic the crew of the little motor tanker "John George," fought for hours to subdue a blaze that threatened destruction of the 79-ton vessel. For 26 days after the blaze had been extinguished the 130-ton ship was steered by hand all the way across the ocean and brought into Montreal.

The story of near disaster to the "John George" was related in a casual way by her captain, Arthur Storey. The "John George," en route to the Imperial Oil Works at Toronto, left Greenwich April 7.

Makes Hazardous Trip

Eskimo Brings Sick Wife To Churchill In Small Boat

The dangers of two-hundred mile trip in an open boat, little better than a canoe, through the ice-filled waters of Hudson Bay were faced by Eskimo Bank, young Eskimo hunter, in bringing his wife to Churchill to receive "white man's medicine."

His wife took sick and as she sank lower Eskimo determined to risk all in the hope the hospital at Churchill would save her life. Unable to travel by dog team, he took a small camp covered boat and set out on the long trip. He hugged the rugged coast line of the bay, avoiding the ice that swept round him and threatened to swamp his canoe with the precious burden.

For nearly two weeks he travelled. His store of food was nearly exhausted, and he was visibly worn, with the hardship of the long paddle, when he crawled over the ice surrounding the port bringing in his wife.

Medical men at Churchill say that his wife has a minor stomach trouble that will be easily cured under proper care but would have likely cost her life if she had not been rushed down to receive medical attention.

Eskimo brought a big collection of furs to pay for the white man's magic, but workmen here have taken up a collection to pay his expenses.

Russia Arranges Credit With Turkey

Based On Goods Exchange Without Actual Money Payments

A new economic alliance between Soviet Russia and Turkey, under which this country is extending an $8,000,000 long term credit to its Islamic neighbor, has been announced by Foreign Minister Tewfik Ruzhdi Bay of Turkey.

The credit is the first ever granted by the Soviet Government, which until now has been a seeker instead of a giver of credit in the world market. It is based on an exchange of goods in kind without actual monetary payments.

Under the agreement Soviet Russia will sell industrial tools, agricultural machines and fertilizers to Turkey, receiving as payments its choice of Turkey's natural resources, such as tobacco, wool, fruits and minerals.

Czechoslovakia may increase its sales tax by 25 per cent.

She paused, and the liquid in the black pot over the fire seethed up suddenly and filled the silence with its chuckling and gurgling, so that Jean it seemed like the sound of some hidden malevolence chortling defiance at her.

The old woman clutched her hand a little tighter, turning the palm so that the light from the tiny window fell more directly upon it.

"There's a castle waitin' for 'ee, me dear," she resumed in the same sing-song voice as before. "I can see it so plain as plain. But you won't never live there 'til the one you're in though you're hopin' to. I see ruin and devastation all around it, and the sky as red as bid above it."

She released Jean's hand slowly, and her curiously bright eyes fastened upon Norman.

"Shall I tell the gentleman's hand?" she asked, stretching out her withered claw to take it.

But he drew it away hurriedly.

"No, no," he said, attempting to speak lightly. "This lady's fortune isn't sufficiently encouraging for me to venture."

The gipsy's eyes never left his face. She nodded slowly.

"That's as may be. For 'tis the same luck and same ill-luck will come to you as comes to thickie mad. There's no ring given or taken, but you're bound together so fast and firm as weddin'-ring could bind 'ee."

Jean felt her face flame scarlet. In the dusk of the tiny room, and as she made her way hastily out into the sunshine once more, thankful for the eager queries of Nick and Claire, which served to bring back to normal the rather strained atmosphere induced by the gipsy's final comment.

As they climbed the side of the tower once more, Jean relapsed into silence. More than had come, more than twice, since she had come to England, she had been vaguely conscious of some hidden menace to her happiness, and she felt it now.

PHILIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA
For Troubles due to Indigestion, Acid Stomach, Headaches, Constipation, Gas, Heartburn, Bile, etc.

Too Much ACID

MANY people, two hours after eating, suffer from indigestion, as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and in one day the symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 50c a bottle—a real drug store.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia tooth-paste.

"Oh, I should invest an armory-plated reason. A broken spring in dog-cart or something. But I do mean that if I don't drive you, I drive no one."

Jean looked at him vexedly. "Well," she said upturning, "we can't have a fuss at a picnic."

"No," agreed Burke. "No I'm afraid you'll have to give in." Jean rather thought so, too. There didn't seem any way out of it. She knew that Burke was perfectly capable, under cover of some supposed mishap to his trap, of throwing the whole party into confusion and difficulty, rather than relinquish his intention.

"Oh, very well," she yielded at last, resignedly. "Have your own way, you obstinate man."

"I intend to," he replied coolly.

"Now—and always."

CHAPTER XXI.

Divers Happenings

"I don't think I want any champagne," said Claire, smilingly, as Nick filled a glass and handed it to her. "Being utterly free like this produces much the same effect. I feel drunk. Nick—drunk with happiness."

She broke abruptly in her speech, her face whitening, and stared past Nick with dilated eyes. Her lips remained parted, just as when she had ceased speaking, and the breath came between them unevenly.

Nick followed the direction of her glance. But he could see nothing to account for her suddenly stricken expression of dismay. A man in chauffeur's livery, vaguely familiar to him, was approaching, and it was upon him that Claire's eyes were fixed in a sick gaze of apprehension. It reminded Nick of the look of a wounded bird, incapable of flight, as it watches the approach of a hungry cat.

"What is it?" he asked quickly. "What's the matter? For God's sake don't look like that, Claire!" Slowly, with difficulty, she wrenched her eyes away from that sleek, conventional figure in the dark green livery.

"Don't you see who it is?" she asked in a harsh, dry whisper.

Before Nick could answer, the man had made his way to Claire's side and paused respectfully.

"Beg pardon, my lady," he said, touching his hat. "Sir Adrian sent me to say that he's waiting for you in the car just along the road there."

He pointed to where, on the white ribbon of road which crossed the Moor just far from the base of the tower, a stationary car was visible.

Claire, her face ashen, turned to Nick in mute appeal.

"Sir Adrian? I thought he left for London this morning?"

Nick shot the question fiercely at the chauffeur, but the man's face remained respectfully blank.

"No, sir. Sir Adrian drove as far as Exeter and then returned. Afterwards we drove on here, sir, and they told us in the village we should find you at Shelton Tors."

Meanwhile the other members of the party were becoming aware that some contretemps had occurred. Claire's white, stricken face was evidence enough that something was amiss, and simultaneously Lady Anne and Jean hurried forward, filled with apprehension.

"What is it, Claire?" asked Lady Anne, suspecting bad news of some kind. "What has happened?"

Recognizing the Charwoman's livery, she turned to the chauffeur and continued quickly: "Has Sir Adrian met with an accident?"

"No, my lady. Sir Adrian is waiting in the car for her ladyship."

"Waiting in the car?" repeated Jean and Lady Anne in chorus.

The little group of friends drew closer together.

"Don't you see what it means?" broke out Claire in a low voice of intense anger. "It's been all a trick—a trick! He never meant to go to London at all. He only pretended to me that he was going, so that I should think that I was free and he could trap me!" She looked at Nick and Jean significantly. "He must have overheard us—that day in the shrubbery at Charwoman—you remember?"

They both nodded. "And then planned to humiliate me in front of her company?"

"But you won't go back with him?" cried Nick hotly. He swung round and addressed the chauffeur stormily. "You can damn well tell your master that her ladyship will return this evening with the rest of the party."

The man's face twitched. As far as it is possible for a well-drilled servant's face to express the human emotion of compassion, his did so.

"It would be no good, sir," he said in a low voice. "He means her ladyship to come. 'Go and fetch her away, Langton,' was his actual words to me."

Best oil cheapest in home, says factory say't.

"The last thing we'd try to economize on," says the superintendent of a large eastern factory, "is lubrication. By using cheap oil we could save hundreds of dollars each year—but it would cost us thousands of dollars for their expensive and lessened efficiency of equipment."

The same is true in the home. If all householders knew that the factory men know about lubrication, few of them would use anything but 3-In-One Oil for their expensive sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, electric fans, lawnmowers, washers, and other household devices. 3-In-One, a blend of mineral, vegetable and animal oils, is the best oil for household use, for it cleans and protects as well as lubricates.

to me. I didn't want the job, sir, as you may guess."

"Well, she's not coming, that's all," declared Nick determinedly.

"Oh, I must, Nick—I must go," cried Claire in distress. "I—I daren't stay."

Lady Anne nodded.

"Yes, I think she must go, Nick dear," she said persuasively. "It would be unbecomingly dramatic."

"But it's damnable!" ejaculated Nick furiously. "It's only done to insult her—to humiliate her!"

Claire smiled a little wistfully.

"I ought to be used to that by now," she said a trifle sadly. "But Lady Anne is right—I must go."

She turned to the chauffeur, dismissing him with a little air of dignity that, in the circumstances, was not without its flavor of heroism. "You can go on ahead, Langton, and tell Sir Adrian that I am coming."

The man touched his hat and moved off obediently.

"Nick and I will walk down to the car with you," said Lady Anne. She was fully alive to the fact that her escort might contribute towards ameliorating the kind of reception Claire would obtain from her husband.

"Jean dear, look after everybody for me for a few minutes, will you? And," raising her voice a little, "explain that Claire has been called home suddenly, as Sir Adrian was not able to make the journey to town."

But Lady Anne's well-meant endeavor to throw dust in the eyes of the rest of the party was of comparatively little use. Although to many of them Claire was personally an entire stranger—since it was only a few days that she had been present to prevent her from forming new friendships—the story of her unhappy married life was practically public property in the neighborhood, and it was quite evident that to all intents and purposes the detestable husband had actually insisted on her returning with him, exactly as a naughty child might be swept off home by an irate parent in the middle of a jolly party.

It was impossible to stem the flood of gossip, and though most of it was kindly enough, and wholeheartedly sympathetic to Lady Letimer, Jean's cheeks burned with indignation that Claire's dignity should be thus outraged.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent for her, and Nick's stormy face when he, together with Lady Anne, rejoined the rest of the party did not seem to lighten her heart.

"I'm so sorry, Nick," she whispered compassionately, when presently the opportunity of a few words alone with him occurred.

He glared at her.

"Are you?" he said shortly. "I'm not. I think I'm glad. This ends it. No woman can be expected to put up with public humiliation of that sort."

"Nick!" There was a sharp note of fear in Jean's voice. "Nick, what do you mean? What are you going to do?"

There was an ugly expression on the handsome boyish-looking face.

"You'll know soon enough," was all he vouchsafed. And swung away from her.

Jean felt troubled. She had never seen Nick before with that set, still look on his face, a kind of bitter concentration which reminded her forcibly of his brother—and she rather dreaded what it might portend.

Her thoughts were still occupied with the afternoon's unpleasant episode, and with the possible consequences which might accrue, as she climbed into Burke's high dog-cart.

She had had a fleeting notion of claiming Claire's vacant seat for the homebound run, but had dismissed it as absurd. Claire's absence merely served to provide comfortable room for Blaise in the Willow Ferry car, which had held its full complement of passengers on the outward journey.

Moreover, she reflected that any change of plan, now that she had agreed to drive back with Burke, might only lead to trouble. He was not in a mood to brook being thwarted.

A big, raking chestnut, on wires to be off, danced between the shafts of the dog-cart, irritably pawing the ground and jerking her handsome, satin-smooth head up and down with a restless jungle of bit and curb-chain. She showed considerably more of the white of a wicked-looking eye than was altogether reassuring as she gazed impatiently against the compulsion of the steady hand which gripped the reins and kept her, against her will, at a standstill.

The instant she felt Jean's light foot on the step her excitement rose to fever heat. Surely this must mean that at last a storm was imminent and that that firm, masterful pressure on the bit would be released!

But Burke had leaned forward to tuck the light dust-rug round Jean's knees, and regarding this further delay as beyond bearing, the chestnut created a diversion by going straight up in the air and prouetting again on her hind legs.

"Steady now!" Burke's calm voice fell rebukingly on the quivering, sensitive ears, and down came two shining hoofs in response, as the mare condescended to resume a more normal pose. The next moment she was off at a swinging trot, beaking every now and again, out of pure exuberance of spirits, into a faster, broader stride, the sound of those dominating hands whose quiet mastery seemed conveyed along the reins as an electric current is carried by a wire.

"You needn't be afraid," remarked Burke. "She'll settle down in a few minutes. It's only a 'stable ache' feeling she's suffering from. There's not an ounce of vice in her composition."

"I'm not afraid," replied Jean composedly.

To Bring Back Prosperity

Only Way Is By Harder Work and Better Work

If we allow ourselves to believe that some intangible, mysterious thing called "recovery" is going to improve our lot without any assistance from ourselves we will soon lose the trenches we have gained. The last three years have chastened the instinct for laziness which is one of our racial disadvantages. The last three years has driven the well-dressed idler into work or obscurity. The last three years has forced us to place our proper relation to the stubborn realities of life. We cannot afford to abandon the stern discipline we have learned. Harder work and better work is the only way to reach the promised land of prosperity. The sweat of our brow alone will good times come again.—Daily Express, London, England.

DECLARE THEY HATE SIGHT OF DUST CLOTHS

Canadian women vote dust cloths a nuisance to use and to wash

MUCH PREFER APPLEFORD WONDER PAPER

With so much inventive thought being given to cleaning, the necessary housework, it is only natural that a worthwhile substitute for the dusty dust cloth should be sought.

Now it has been found! Appleford Wonder Paper which actually dusters—sifts clean—as it polishes is receiving a hearty welcome from Canadian women who detest dust cloths and all they stand for.

Wonder Paper is made from clean rags and soft paper pulp, thoroughly impregnated with a high-grade furniture polish, and absorbs dirt instead of spreading it.

Appleford Wonder Paper comes in handy packages, twenty-five sheets, each as large as a duster. You merely crumple a sheet into a soft pad, and go over the surfaces requiring attention.

You'll be amazed at the quick and lasting finish Wonder Paper gives. When one side is worn and soiled, simply turn the Wonder Paper inside out. After the furniture or woodwork has been gone over, you still use your Wonder Paper on the floors.

And when you're through—throw it away. No dust to shake out or wash. No bother at all. The most obnoxious part of housework done in half the time and with half as much effort. Doesn't the idea appeal to you?

Special Offer

Wonder Paper is made by the makers of the famous PARA-SANI heavy waxed paper in the Green Box. Most grocery, hardware and department stores sell Appleford Wonder Paper. If you don't, just send the coupon and we'll give you a new and unused pack of "Leftovers," containing one hundred receipts, as a bonus for your trouble.

"Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ."—Galatians vi. 2.

What is the real good? I asked in musing mood. Order, said the law-court; Knowledge, said the school; Truth, said the wise man; Pleasure, said the fool; Love, said the maiden; Beauty, said the page; Freedom, said the dreamer; Honesty, said the soldier; Fame, said the soldier; Equity, the seer—

He spoke my heart full sadly. "The answer is not here." Then within my bosom, Softly this I heard, "Each heart holds the secret, Kindness is the word!"

John Boyle O'Reilly.

But now God has so ordained it that we should learn to bear one another's burdens, for there is no one who has not some defect, no one without some burden, no one independent of others, no one wise enough of himself, but we ought to bear with one another, comfort one another, help, instruct, and advise one another.

—Thomas A. Kempis.

Origin Of The Sandwich

It seems that the spirit of the age is against tea. "I wouldn't dream of it," says a friend, "with all the paraphernalia of a tea table," says a very modern hostess; "We usually play bridge and a stop for tea would be a nuisance." So we are back again at the days when Lord Sandwich, too busy with gambling to bother about lunch, invented the snack which bears his name.

Psychologists find, in tests, that stimulating effects of caffeine in coffee and other beverages become less as the user grows accustomed to the drink.

Varnish Doubles the Life of Oilcloth and Linoleum

The highest priced linoleum or oilcloth floor coverings soon yield to the scuffle of busy feet and then "look old."

Special varnishes are made for oilcloth and linoleum, and you yourself can apply them.
